Call for Applications - Student Committees and Societies

To foster holistic development, practical skills, and a vibrant campus life, the college invites applications from interested students to join our various student-run committees and clubs.

Participation in these committees is highly encouraged as it builds advocacy skills and enhances your resume. Names are invited from all students for the following committees:

- Moot Court Committee (MCC): The most important aspect of any law school. This committee organizes intra-college moot court competitions, selects university representatives for national/international moots, and conducts workshops on legal drafting and appellate advocacy.
- Legal Aid Cell (LAC): Dedicated to the principle of "Justice for All." Members work on pro-bono initiatives, organize legal awareness camps in marginalized communities, and assist in providing free legal counseling under the guidance of faculty and practicing advocates.
- Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) Cell: Focuses on the rapidly growing fields of arbitration, mediation, and negotiation. The cell trains students in out-of-court settlement tactics and organizes client-counseling and mediation tournaments.
- Debate & MUN Society: For those who wish to hone their oratory, quick-thinking, and critical analysis skills. This club hosts parliamentary debates, conventional debates, and Model United Nations (MUN) conferences.
- Law Review & Literary Committee: Ideal for students passionate about legal research and writing. Members manage the college's legal journal, edit student submissions, and organize essay-writing and legal drafting competitions.
- Cultural Committee: Responsible for bringing energy and celebration to the campus. This committee plans and executes cultural fests, ethnic days, music and dance events, and talent shows.
- Sports & Athletics Committee: Promotes physical well-being and team spirit by organizing intra-college sports meets and managing college teams for inter-university tournaments.

NOTE: Interested students are required to collect and submit their application form from the faculty room.
